What is Hidradenitis Suppurativa?

Hidradenitis suppurativa (HS) is a chronic, inflammatory skin condition that affects the apocrine glands, which are found in the armpits, groin, and under the breasts. HS causes painful, swollen lumps to form in these areas, which can lead to scarring and drainage.

HS is a rare condition, affecting only about 1% of the population. However, it is a debilitating condition that can have a significant impact on a person's quality of life.

Symptoms of Hidradenitis Suppurativa

The symptoms of HS can vary from person to person, but some of the most common symptoms include:

* Painful, swollen lumps in the armpits, groin, or under the breasts * Lumps that are filled with pus or blood * Lumps that break open and drain * Scarring * Drainage

HS can also cause other symptoms, such as:

* Fever * Chills * Fatigue * Weight loss * Depression

Causes of Hidradenitis Suppurativa

The exact cause of HS is unknown, but it is thought to be caused by a combination of factors, including:

* Genetics * Hormones * Immune system dysfunction * Environmental factors

HS is more common in women than in men, and it typically begins in adulthood.

Treatment Options for Hidradenitis Suppurativa

There is no cure for HS, but there are a number of treatments that can help to manage the symptoms. Some of the most common treatments include:

* Antibiotics * Anti-inflammatory medications * Surgery * Laser therapy *
Dietary changes

The best treatment option for HS will vary depending on the individual patient.
