- Size: Nigerian Dwarf goats are typically between 18 and 24 inches tall at the shoulder and weigh between 75 and 100 pounds. If you have a small yard or home, you may want to consider a smaller breed of goat.
- Temperament: Nigerian Dwarf goats are generally friendly and easy to handle. However, some goats may be more timid or aggressive than others. It is important to spend time with a goat before you bring it home to make sure it is a good fit for your family.

- Health: Nigerian Dwarf goats are generally healthy animals. However, they can be susceptible to certain health problems, such as hoof rot and parasites. It is important to have your goat regularly checked by a veterinarian to ensure it is healthy.

Providing Proper Care for Your Nigerian Dwarf Goat

Once you have chosen a Nigerian Dwarf goat for your family, it is important to provide it with proper care. This includes providing a clean and comfortable shelter, a healthy diet, and regular veterinary care.

Shelter

Nigerian Dwarf goats need a clean and dry shelter to protect them from the elements. The shelter should be at least 8 feet by 8 feet and should have a solid floor. The shelter should also have good ventilation and a door that can be closed to keep predators out.

Diet

Nigerian Dwarf goats are browsers and grazers. They should be fed a diet that is high in hay and low in grain. The hay should be of good quality and should be free of mold or dust. The grain should be fed in moderation and should be a complete feed that contains all of the nutrients that your goat needs.

Veterinary Care

Nigerian Dwarf goats should be seen by a veterinarian at least once a year for a checkup. The veterinarian will examine your goat for any health problems and will recommend vaccinations and deworming. It is also important to trim your goat's hooves regularly.

Nigerian Dwarf goats make great pets for families of all ages. They are friendly, easy to care for, and can provide years of enjoyment. If you are considering getting a pet goat, a Nigerian Dwarf goat is a great option.
